INTRODUCTION

The court issues this order to document its release order, to set this matter (with the parties' agreement) on the district court's calendar on Friday, February 22, 2013, at 11 a.m. for a hearing on the government's appeal of the release decision, and to stay its release order to allow the district court to hear the government's appeal.

ANALYSIS

I. RELEASE ORDER AND STAY

The undersigned held four detention hearings in this case on January 25, January 28, January 30, 2013, and ordered Mr. Hasan detained (although it allowed Mr. Hasan to be released for the day on Thursday, January 31, 2013, so that he could attend an interview). The court ordered Mr. Hasan released on February 21, 2013 on the same conditions of supervision and added the additional conditions reflected on the attached bond form: home detention with electronic

1 monitoring and the ability to leave his home for appointments only if approved by his probation
2 officer. The court also added Mr. Hasan's significant other, Lillian Posey, as a surety, and added
3 her as a custodian. As the court does with all sureties and custodians, it advised Ms. Posey (who 4 works at BCBG Max Azaria) of the charges, the penalties, and all the terms of supervision, and it
5 discussed with her the serious promises of a custodian (which here were articulated as working
6 with Ms. Romero, helping Mr. Hasan get to and from his authorized appointments, and informing 7 probation of any violations under penalty of being held in civil or criminal contempt) and
8 obligations of a surety (judgment against her personally in the amount of $25,000). The court's 9 view is that these additional conditions provide the assurances and satisfy by clear and convincing
10 evidence that Mr. Hasan is not likely to flee or pose a danger. See 18 U.S.C. § 3439(a))(1).

11 The additional conditions are reflected on the attached bond form.

12 The government notified the parties that it intends to appeal the decision and asked for a stay.
13 The parties agreed that they would set the matter on the district court's calendar for February 22,
14 2013 at 11 a.m. To facilitate the U.S. Marshal's transportation of Mr. Hasan, the court sets the 15 hearing because if it does not, Mr. Hasan will not be here if the defense determines that it wants to 16 go forward on February 22, 2013. The court also stays its release order until after the hearing.
17 The one issue is that Ms. Romero was not available on Friday. It may be that she can send 18 someone else familiar with the case (such as Robert Tenney) and that will be sufficient. If not, the 19 parties should work with the district court to set a different date, and the court's stay will remain 20 in effect until then.

21 II. OTHER CONSIDERATIONS

22 The court previously issued an order documenting some of the considerations about its 23 release decision. See 1/31/13 Order, ECF No. 65. The following are some of those considerations
24 and more.

25 First, as the government pointed out in its filing at ECF No. 63, and as the pending Form 12
26 illustrates, Mr. Hasan has struggled throughout his supervision (pre-trial and post-conviction), and 27 the government and the probation officer justifiably have concerns about Mr. Hasan. The 28 allegations here involve conduct that Mr. Hasan had complete control over: reporting to his

1 probation officer, submitting monthly reports, attending therapy and testing, and attending his
2 probation appointments. In fact, Mr. Hasan stopped showing up at all.

3 Second, at the government's request, the court efiled at ECF No. 69 the government's list of 4 Mr. Hasan's failures to comply with the terms of his supervision. As the court said at the 5 hearings, all of the government's arguments are fair, but they are not a complete capture of Mr.
6 Hasan's struggles (and some successes) on supervision.

7 Third, the court's view is that when Mr. Hasan enrolls in his training program, things will 8 change. Employment, job skills, and finishing a project are all things that Mr. Hasan has not 9 achieved. The court's view is that in the interim, Mr. Hasan needs to work on the list attached to 10 the court's previous order, have a complete psych evaluation (as Ms. Halbert contemplates), 11 working on the funding for his training, and establish a better working relationship with his 12 probation officer. After a month in custody, the court's view – at least from the standpoint of a
13 bail decision – are that the additional conditions will enable him to comply with his supervision
14 conditions and work on his employment.
